In 1881, when Conkling and Platt resigned seats in the National Senate, Mr. Miller was chosen to succeed Mr. Platt. His most conspicuous act as Senator was the introduction of the bill, not a law, to restrict the manufacture of eleomargarine.

The Colorado department, numbering five hundred veterans, arrived in this city early yesterday morning, and have their headquarters established at room 16, of the State House. Accompaning this delegation are two splendid musical organizations, the Greely Band, consisting of fifty pieces, and a Sons of Veterans drum corps, also numbering twenty members. The delegation came in special cars fitted with sleeping apartments, dining room, and in short nearly every hotel convenience. These special cars are being used as quarters by the delegation during its sojourn here. This department includes Wyoming Territory, and coversan area equal to all the New England States, New Jersey, Ohio and Kentucky. The northera and southern parts are separated by a distance of 1,200 miles. In addition to covering such a large district, this department is composed of representatives from volunteer regiments of almost every State, owing to the extensive immigration into that section of country from all parts of the United States during the first years of development of Colorado's vast mining resources. An extensive exhibit of this State's mineral and agricultural resources will be opened to morrow afternon at the Colorado department headquarters. This exhibit is said to include some of the finest specimens of silver and lead ore ever brought to the Central State.

AT THE DEPOT.

The general ticket offices near the south and of the tunnel had probably the greatest rowd about them of any place in the city, and several officers were stationed there to ceep people stirring. A tripple force of the state of the people and gone. The north patrol-house came in for its share of the attention, while "The General," the celebrated locomotive made famous in the Andrews raid, was the senter of an admiring throng all day. As last as delegations arrived they were rapidy marched down street and to their quaters, from which they emerged soon afterward to throng over the town, Many took the horse cars and rode out to the ends of the lines and back to familiarize themelyes with the city, while others looked hrough the State house and other public suildings.

Three Men Condemned.

Three Men Condemned. PLACERVILLE, CAL., September 11.—The ury in the cases of J. H. Myers, John Olsen and William Drager, on trial for the murier of farmer James Lowell, near Sacranento, last February, has returned a veriict finding all three men guilty of murder a the first degree.

"It's murder," exclaimed one of the sarty, who was kneeling in the rain. Policemen arrived, who summoned an mbuiance. At the hospital it was decided o pull out the umbrella tip at once. It was a simple operation, but required trength. While the others held the man's tead, Dr. Bird seized the projecting end of he umbrella tip with a pair of forcepa, nd. after several long, hard pulls, drew it rom bone and brain. But little blood followed. Half an hour later the man was leeping under an opiate. He was restless and constantly muttering and groaning, ant did not recover consciousness enough and constantly multering and groaning, and did not recover consciousness enough to talk. The umbrells entered just below he outer corner of the eye. The doctors hink it passed just beneath the floor of he orbit and penetrated the skull near the penoidal fissure.

It was learned that the viceim was James 'ogarity, a peddler. He died in the hosital without regaining consciousness, here is absolutely no clue to the murierer.

A Destructive Cuban Harricane.

New Orleans, September 11.—A dispatch rom Havana, dated September 7, via Key West, September 8, says: An officer from he Spanish gumboat Guardian, which rode out the gale in Batabano harbor, arrived sere this morning with the first official dispatches relative to the loss of the government launch Lealtad at Batabano, not sagua, as first stated. The report states that at 12:30 on the night of the 4th inst, when the wind shifted from northwest to the west, and while endeavoring to slip her ables to beach the vessel under a full head of steam, a huge wave boarded her, washing all hands into the scuppers. Captain Leon Urbina went down with his vessel. The following morning the only survivor of the Lealtad was rescued clinging to her rigging. Bodies of the pilot and one seaman only have been recovered.

As telegraphic and other communications with the interior towns become established, the first reports of the havoc aused by the hurricane are confirmed. This is particularly the case at Batabano, Matausea, Cardenas, Sagua, and other places on the north coast, which suffered as much from the effects of the high tides inundating a large area of territory as from the wind. At Caibarean much damage is reported, the steamer Clara being ashors. At Muriel, the schooner Magdalena was blown on the rocks, and is a total loss.

Private advices from Cardenas state that all the wharves are destroyed, numberless small boats sunk and the city inundated with water. The damage is estimated at $1,000,000.

ALBANY, N. Y., September 11.—The exhibition of pure food products, which opened here yesterday, is the first and most extensive of its character that has ever been thrown open to the public. Adulterated articles of food have heretofore only appeared to court the study of scientists and peared to court the study of scientists and physicians. Much good is accordingly expected to resuit from this first successful endeavor to educate the people as to the deleterious and dangerous constiuents entering into most of the ordinary articles of food they consume, which will undoubtedly culminate in speedy legislative action being taken to punish those guilty of the infamous practices exposed by this exhibition. The opening has been very oppertunely arranged as the great trades demonstration occurs here to-day and the majority of those participating will undoubtly pay a visit to the exhibition as soon as the procession closes.

A Jilted Lover Buleides

A Jitted Lover Suicides.

Trank Marting, a barber who came to this city six months ago from Cincinnati, called at the house of Lena Webber, to whom he had been paying attentions and committed suicide in her presence. The girl heard he was a married man, and recently told him he would have to quit coming. When he called to urge her to receive him again he was unsuccessful. She admitted him into the parlor, and after she positively refused to receive his visits, he took out a pencil and began writing on a piece of paper. When he had finished he pulled outs revolver, and holding it to his right temple, fired. He fell dead to the floor. The note he left was to his father, at 53 Olive street, Cincinnati, and simply declared his/intention to suicide, and asked that no expense be made in burrying him. The only Chinese tramp in the country, at least he was generally looked upon as such, died Friday in New York. At one time he was tolerably well off, having gotten together considerable money through the laundry business. Afterwards he set up a gambling establishment, and this step marked his downfall in life. Eventually his purse became empty, and he took to tramping the country, getting victuals and clothes the best he knew how.

FROM 9 A. M. TO 4 P. M.

Special Attention to Nervous, Chronic Skin and Blood Diseases.

The large force of physicians which the doctor employs at his Medical Institute enables him to get away occasionally and give those who cannot well visit Cleveland an opportunity to consult him. The visits are necessarily brief, and by no means so frequent as might be wished. But in those he has made he has been able, by reason of his vast experience and wonderful intuitive powers, to do a great amount of good.

The Doctor Makes this Business Proposition

To all who are suffer ing from the obscure or complicated diseases, who, from reasons of delicacy, do not wish to consult home physicians, or who have been kept off and on, tying in misery, by some practitioner who has not had the honesty to say. "I cannot be a sufficient or the say of the say of
